Conclusion
Based on these results, we have identified some solutions to reduce the risk: the double-check carried out by two different people could solve the risk due to incorrect labelling; and the software used by pharmacists can be improved to reduce the risk related to the patients’ allergy or cross-reaction. Finally, errors can be reduced through clearer and specific sessions of training for the compounders.

References and/or Acknowledgements
No conflict of interest.